Two powerful Rochester organizations that have combined their might are being honored at the White House for working to make the community healthier.

John Urban, president and chief executive officer of the Greater Rochester Health Foundation, will accept a Champion of Change award Friday after being nominated by the YMCA of Greater Rochester. The award goes to the individual, but the nominating agencies are recognized, as well.

"From my perspective, it is really about the foundation," said Urban. "The work I've done has been with the foundation resources
